Applicant's election without traverse of Group II, claims 15-17, in the reply filed on 18 March 2005 is acknowledged.

Claims 13 and 14 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 18 March 2005.

Claim 17 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 15 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Erlich et al. (U, newly cited).

Claim 15 is drawn to a method of characterizing a nucleic acid, comprising providing at least one oligonucleotide probe which specifically hybridizes to a polymorphic genetic linkage marker in a genomic DNA sample, amplifying a mixture of nucleic acids comprising a group of genome fragments comprising polymorphisms, thereby providing an amplified nucleic acid mixture of genome fragments, and hybridizing the at least one oligonucleotide probe to the amplified nucleic acid mixture, thereby detecting at least one nucleic acid fragment in said amplified mixture. Claim 16 further specifies that the probe is a member of an array, which array comprises additional oligonucleotide probes which hybridize to polymorphic markers.

Erlich et al. teaches, e.g., in Figure 2, a method of using an array of allele-specific oligonucleotide probes to analyze a sample of PCR-amplified human DNA. Multiple probes are used in the array.
